I miss my friends, my teachers and my school!

This is the general view of all the students as they struggle to cope up with this online mode of teaching with nearly zero physical interaction.

Parents have had their lives turned upside down. They have had to, in this last year, support the teachers by helping the child cope up with the syllabi being imparted via the online mode. The responsibility of ensuring that the child attend the classes, completes the work given, falls upon the shoulder of the parents. The working parent is struggling ever so more, but on the other hand we could look at the silver lining and acknowledge that learning is actually everywhere. It could be in a different context other than school interaction such as learning life skills at home. Some of us must have utilised this precious time to teach our children about our customs, culture and beliefs. Communication between the family members is undergoing a sea change, bringing them much closer than ever before. During this time the children have learnt so much more actually. They had extra time for reading, art, music, dance, sports. Some children have utilised this time and discovered new talents, new hobbies. They have upped their game manifold. The parents do worry about the missed classes, exams, absence of the physical learning. Presence of the teacher in an environment of the class room definitely does facilitate a different type of learning and they do worry that their child is missing out on all of this but we have to remember that growing has not stopped. This world is full of wonders. The child might be missing out on the experiences gained in school but has and is still learning. They are definitely missing out on the experiences in school that come with the rising sun, each day being a new fun day.

Children miss their friends, cousins, freedom, just plain human interaction. They cannot have sleepovers, dinners, birthday parties. The social circle of a child has suddenly shrunk. They will be so nervous, awkward to meet friends, teachers outside their limited social circle. Children try to steal a few minutes of chatter during the online classes before the teacher starts the lesson but what about the introvert child? Never talking, never switching on the camera. She/he is becoming more of an introvert. The teacher has to gently coax them to open up in the online classes. Children miss classrooms, the playground, the teachers, the chalk dust, the hustle and bustle before the teacher walks in. The sharing of the tiffin, the stolen moments of chit chat. They have had to adjust their life clock to each different situation as life throws a new episode every time.

Talking about the teachers, there is no less amount of stress and confusion in their lives. A whole new mode of teaching, unknown durations of this problem, how to maintain and sustain connection with their students, how to support and accelerate learning? Everything was and continues to be so messy, frustrating with no end in sight. New challenges being faced everyday. How to connect, how to kindle the interest of the child, how to get them to perform simple tasks like reading and writing? The teachers are trying their level best to ensure interactive lessons, powerpoint presentations that captures the attention of the child and trying to maintain a connection with the students. At times the lessons go fast. Some are unable to cope up but this becomes the major responsibility of the teacher. Motto being "no child left behind". The biggest problem today's teacher faces is how to motivate the student. The student today considers it as an obligation as they are forced to forget the distractions such as games, phones, television and focus on the boring stuff of online teaching. We require to bring back the excitement of the little things that the children are experiencing to peak their interest again. We have to work hard to make school, specially now a place where students can join up with excitement, passion to create a real learning process. The students will only learn something well when they have a reason to learn it. This reason has to be created by the teacher in order to facilitate learning.

Let us teachers and parents come together today to bring forth this motivation in the life of our child so that they are able to achieve all happiness and success.

THE STRIKING LIGHT

One night,
I saw a striking light
Just outside my house
It was coming and going like a mouse.
As the wind was blowing fast
And the rain started off at last
It was like a premiere movie now
But something was missing somehow.
Was it the lighting or the thunder sound?
Whatever it was, how could it be found?
Suddenly something caught my eye,
I saw a bunch of kids
Then I saw the missing thing,
It was the joy that the children bring,
but it was missing on their faces,
Seeing them your heart races.
Then it all went quiet,
Underneath the clouds I saw a light,
It was the end of the storm,
But I knew it would come again.

MY TEACHERS

When I first went to school,
I was very small,
My teachers were the ones
to do it all.
They taught me how to
love and care,
They also taught me how important it is to share.
I learnt from them every day,
And wish to become an obedient boy.
Thank you!

गुरु माँ

इस कोरोना ने हमारी माँ को गुरु बनाया। जो पहले केवल खिलाती - पिलाती थी, अब वह पढ़ाती-लिखाती भी हैं।
हम माँ का काम और नहीं बढ़ाना चाहते।
हमारे स्कूल खोल दो, हमें हमारे गुरुओं की बहुत याद आ रही है।
हम स्कूल जाएं, अपने गुरुओं से शिक्षा लेकर अपनी माँ का काम थोड़ा आसान करें।
गुरु भी ऑनलाइन पढ़ा कर बहुत मेहनत कर रहे हैं, तो उनका भी काम आसान करें।
यह कोरोना हट जाए और स्कूल खुल जाए,
इस कोरोना ने हमारी माँ को गुरु बनाया।।

MY YOUNGER BROTHER

I am blessed with a younger brother. He is four years old. His name is Akshat. I call him Akku with love. His favourite colour is red. He loves to fly kites; my father and I help him to fly kites. He also loves playing Snakes and Ladders, Ludo and Carrom with me. He likes to eat ladyfinger with chapati. We have sibling rivalry too. No matter how much we fight over things but deep down we both love each other dearly. This is the essence of our brotherhood.

MY BEAUTIFUL GARDEN

I have a beautiful garden with lush green grass. My garden is full of fascinating flowers such as roses, hibiscus, lilies, mogra, marigold, periwinkles, etc. There are numerous herbs like tulsi, fenugreek, coriander, mint, bishop weed etc. planted in the garden by my grandfather. My grandfather also grows vegetables there. It also has lots of trees that bear delicious fruits such as mangoes, guavas, pomegranate, sapota, wood apple, papaya, and custard apples. Daily many birds and squirrels come to my garden to drink water. Every day my brother and I play in the garden. I love my garden.

Me & Mumma - Best Friends Forever

I and Mumma became best friends when I was born.

Mumma is always around me.

We keep each other's secrets,

We are "Best Friends Forever" always by each other's side,

We go up and down together,

We go ON and ON forever...

Mumma is here for me, and I am here for Mumma

That's what best friends do !

Mumma and my friendship is strongest in the world.

THE LITTLE THINGS!!

"Mummy, I am going out to play,
I cannot be locked in the room whole day
All work and no play makes jack a dull boy
I have to go out with my friends and enjoy"
"Son, there are dangers out there which we cannot see,
I wish you stay put until the disease flee!"
"Mummy I am so young and small
The trees in the fields have grown tall
If no ones goes out and play
It would be turned in a jungle someday."

यह मेरा सीमावर्ती है। दो पवित्र कार्यक्षेत्रों सेना और विश्व का माध्यम से देश की सशस्त्र सेना को सुलभ कर मिलता। मेने पश्चिम अफ्रीक के देशों को भी प्राप्य ली थी। अतिम स्तर पर ईश्वर द्वारा सर किलिफ के युद्ध के शब्द और भी मूल्य वृद्धि करके हैं। अफ्रीका देशों को सशस्त्र, सम्मान और कल्याण दृष्टि। और हर बार सर्वप्रथम है। इस प्रकार की भावना देश को जेल के नगरिक के मन में भी हलदी चाहिए। उसका स्वार्थ त्याग कर खुले देश के लिए देशवर्षी और अतिम है। मानवता के खेत-खेत कार्य से प्रत्येक नगरिक को के विचार से मेने स्वर्गनीय हो सका है।

हमारे देश को आजाद करने के लिए अनेक देश भागी ने अपना सर्वस्व न्योछर
किया और उनके अर्द्ध विंगारों ने देश की जनता को प्रेरित किया, वह जानकर हमारा
देश आज़ाद हुआ। अतः हम कोतिदिवसों के आदर्शों को हमारे देश की युवा पीढ़ी को
समझना होगा और देश की आर्दी को बनाए रखने के लिए तयार रहना होगा।
