August 15th holds immense significance in Indian history as the day the nation gained independence from British colonial rule in 1947. The struggle for independence spanned nearly two centuries, marked by numerous revolts, movements, and sacrifices. British control began in the mid-18th century with the East India Company and was solidified after the 1857 Indian Rebellion, leading to direct British governance.

The early 20th century saw the rise of mass movements led by figures like Mahatma Gandhi, who championed non-violent resistance through the Civil Disobedience Movement, the Quit India Movement, and the Salt March. These movements mobilized millions of Indians and placed immense pressure on the British government.

World War II further weakened British control, and the post-war environment, coupled with the determined efforts of Indian nationalists, made British withdrawal inevitable. On August 15, 1947, India was finally declared independent, ending nearly 200 years of British rule. The day is celebrated with great fervor across the country, marked by flag hoisting, parades, and cultural events.

However, independence came with the tragic partition of India and Pakistan, leading to large-scale violence and displacement. Despite the challenges, August 15 remains a symbol of India's resilience, unity, and the beginning of a new era as a sovereign nation. Today, it is commemorated as Independence Day, honoring the sacrifices of those who fought for freedom and celebrating the nation's progress since its independence.

MY LOVELY CHILDHOOD

When I was one, I had just begun.

When I was two, my parents taught me many things to do.

When I was three, I nearly adapted myself.

When I was four, started getting bored.

When I was five, I started taking my side.

When I was six, I knew many things to fix.

When I was seven, I started to think about when I would be eleven.

When I was eight, I started to have faith.

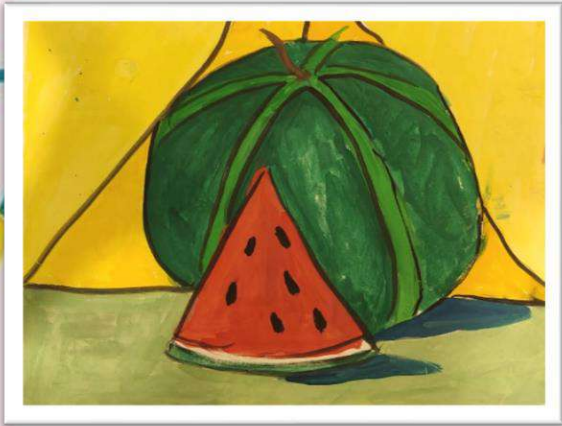

When I was nine, I thought the time chimes.

But now I am ten, but I did not realize when.

Now I will see how my brother will be.

SAVE WATER

Water is the most important thing in the world. All living things like humans, animals and plants need water to grow. Without water, we cannot drink, cook, bathe or grow food. So, we should save water by closing the tap while brushing and bathing and should use it wisely. During summer days, we had a shortage of water in our society. My parents bought water for our daily needs. They taught me the importance of water so I would request everyone to save water for our future.

STORY OF A TOY

Hello, I am a toy. I want to share my life story with you all. I have many friends of various types, shapes, and colours.

Every child loves me.

We have different categories to enhance the skills of children.

I am made up of plastic, my friends are made up of wood, metal, and many other materials.

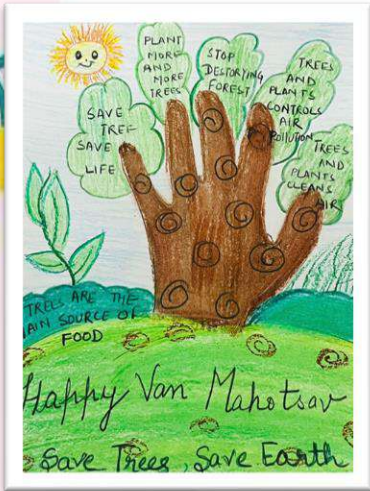

Kids love my friends who are furry like teddy bears and other animals.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

On this glorious Independence Day,
Let's be proud and stay,
Vigorous and celebrate the victories,
As we are free from other countries!

From hard struggles and sacrifices,
India won and it memorizes
The father of the nation Gandhi Ji valued,
Him for his bravery and gratitude.

The high mountains and peaks,
Gardens and cities,
And our whole nation will be
Thrilled and carefree,
On this Independence Day.

It was the best day of the year,
1947 as we were at leisure with no fear.
In every possible way,
We will celebrate this glorious Independence
Day.

MY SCHOOL

My school is the best,
It never goes to rest.
My teachers are so nice,
They are so humble n wise.
We study, we play, we dance n sing,
My lovely school has everything.
We play with friends, crafts and clay,
That's why we love to go to school everyday.

THE MONSOON MAGIC

The clouds come in, dark and wide,
A rainy blanket spread outside.
The sky turns grey, a lovely view,
As raindrops start to play with you.

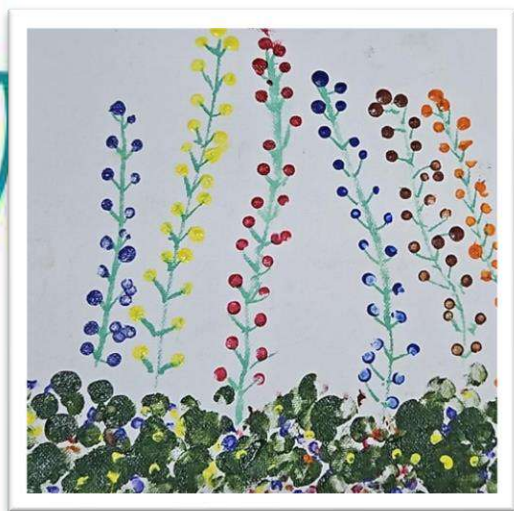

The trees dance to the rain's song,
Puddles form where we belong.
The air smells fresh, flowers bloom,
It's monsoon time, a happy room.

Rainbows shine with colours bright,
A magical show in the light.
Umbrellas open, splashing sounds,
As we jump in puddles all around.

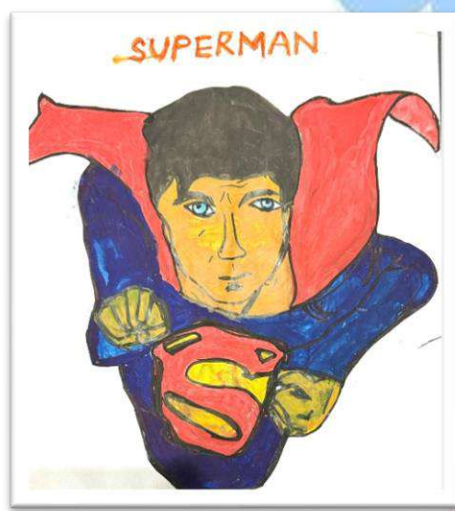

Rivers dance and fields turn green,
The monsoon's magic is so serene.
So let the rain pour down with glee,
Come, join the fun, and splash with me!

MY CUTE SIBLINGS

I have a sister and a brother. They both are very cute. Me and my sister always wear same clothes, people call us twins. We spend our day together. My brother is ten months old. His voice is very soft. His first word was "didi". I always become happy when I hear it. I enjoy carrying him and giving him food. We three love, care and play with each other. I am blessed to have them.
